Do vs Does Questions - English Grammar Rules

How do I always refers to yourself as the asker, or another asker if quoted or referenced e.g. . She asked "How do I do this?" How to however does not make this distinction and can be used more flexibility.. For example: I said how to fix it? I said how do I fix it? These both mean different things. Otherwise you can use the two phrases for the same purpose, just keep in mind they require ...

Therefore, the answer is, "What do Gloria and I have in common?" Try this example: "What does/do the children look like in their costumes?" If you turn the question around to place the subjects first, you would say, "The children does/do look like what in their costumes." Because children is a plural subject, we again need the plural verb do.

DO vs DOES in Questions. To make a question in the Simple Present Tense in English we normally put the auxiliary Do or Does at the beginning of the question before the subject.. Affirmative: You speak Arabic. Question: Do you speak Arabic? You will see that we add DO at the beginning of the affirmative sentence to change it into a question. We use Do when the subject is I, you, we or they.
