I bought a pair of VT 2.4's as part of an all-NHT surround sound system in 2000. 18 years later, they still sound great. I am driving them with a McIntosh MC7205 five channel home theater amp. The NHT's sound great on both home theater and two channel, but be sure to have at least 100 WPC, and an amp that can drive a 6 ohm load.

The VT-2 is NHT's reference audio/video speaker system. According to the manufacturer, it is designed (like its smaller brother, the VT-1A) to meet the needs of both high-fidelity home music systems and home theaters. The speaker is a three-way tower system whose main drivers are grouped in the top portion of its 4-foot-tall cabinet.
