How to Start Making a Profit With Forex Trading

Buying eight or 10 stocks cost dearly in trading commissions. The impact by just one of those stocks will be limited. Eight to 10 stocks makes sense in an account of say, $200,000, $500,000 or more, and when the market is in a strong uptrend. By owning just one or two stocks, you must cut losses short, at 7% or less.

Instead, a trader should focus on a tested process that will produce a small loss and bigger trading profits over a large sample size. There's an old saying that you can never go broke by taking profits. I believe that statement to be true, with one caveat. It is only true if those profits outstrip the losses by a ratio of at least five-to-one.
